LINGAFELTER CASE ADJOURNED UNTIL THURSDAY MORNING

Attorney Frank Owen of Mt. Vernon, Was Taken Ill and Could Not Appear at Wednesday Afternoon's Session—Prosecution Have Examined a Number of Witnesses—Case is Attracting Much Attention.

The court was dismissed at 1:30 this afternoon to be called Thursday morning, and possibly not until noon, owing to the illness of one of the attorneys for the defense, Frank V. Owens, of Mt. Vernon. Mr. Owens left for his home this afternoon.

The Tuesday afternoon session of the Robert Lingafelter forgery trial was the most interesting so far for the reason that the examination of the witnesses was begun at once.

The prosecuting witness, Theo. Taylor, was the first to be called by the case and gave the relying testimony of the state. He testified that he had owned running stock in the Homestead Building and Loan Association in 1888; that the stock was paid up. The witness identified his signature on a receipt dated January 16, 1904. The next receipt, bearing the signature of Theo. Taylor, and dated Sept. 27, 1899, was shown the witness who stated that he never received that sum, that he never signed the receipt, and never authorized any person to sign his name to such a receipt. A point of objection was taken advantage of by the defense regarding the use of the paper in the case as evidence on the ground that the attorneys for the defense, having secured the permission of the prosecutor to see the papers to be submitted as evidence in the case, were not shown all of them. The objection of the attorneys was overruled. Another document, signed with the witness' name and bearing the date Sept. 19, 1899, was shown him and he also denied knowledge of this one. A number of similar receipts were denied in the same manner by Mr. Taylor. He also testified that on two different occasions deposits amounting to a total of $75.00 were received by some one other than himself.

R. E. Lumm, foreman at the Newark Machine works was the next witness called by the state. He testified that he had been a depositor in the building association. The witness identified his pass book and stated that he stopped business with the association, calling for his account and that after Sept. 12, 1898, he had no dealings with the company. He identified the signature to receipt 1467, saying that it was in his hand writing. Another receipt, dated March 18, 1899, was denied having been given by the witness, or signed by him.

Flora Wood Dean was next called. She stated that until September of 1898 she resided in Newark, at which time she went to Illinois and Texas, being gone until the latter part of December. She stated that she was a depositor in the bank and identified her pass book. A receipt shown her was identified. She stated that while away she frequently sent money to the bank, in 1899 and 1900. A receipt for $274 bearing the date Nov. 26, 1898, was shown the witness, who denied having signed it. Another, number 1779, was shown her and she stated that she did not sign that one. Another certificate of deposit shown the witness was claimed by her to be false as she stated that it had never been in her possession. The witness also denied having deposited as shown by the books and records, $97 on September 2; $6 on September 17; $63 on September 28; $5 on October 8, 1898; $38 on October 25; $65 on October 22, and also denied having withdrawn $274 on November 26.

The prosecutor presented the pass book (D. 349) of 1902, which was identified by the witness as one of the two used by her in her dealings with the association.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Flora Wood Dean resumed the witness stand Wednesday morning. Her testimony on re-examination was practically the same as given in the afternoon Tuesday. Receipt number 1400 was offered by the prosecution, bearing the signature of Flora Wood. The witness was shown several papers, and asked for a comparison between the ones submitted and the paper given the witness by Mrs. Lingafelter. The counsel for the defense objected to the form in which the questions were put and to the papers submitted. This witness was questioned regarding persons whom she was in company during the Mt.

Vernon trial of the Lingafelter case. A certain "mysterious man" was brought into the case by the defense, of which the witness denied all knowledge.

Hattie Miles Smith of 155 North street, was the next witness called. She stated that all money deposited by her was credited on her pass book, and that she had never withdrawn any money without having it placed on her book. The witness identified her pass book which she had used from 1894 to 1902. Receipt number 2192 was presented and the witness identified the signature as her own. Receipt 3199 was stated to be false, by the witness. On September 19, 1900, the date of the receipt for $182, the witness denied having received any money from the bank.

The cross examination showed that the witness possessed a second pass book from the bank, but could not remember when withdrawals were made. Her examination was brief, and was followed by that of Mrs. W. L. Whitecamp who testified that she had dealt with the Homestead Building Association; identified her pass book, which was offered in evidence, denied signing receipt 3365. Witness who denied the signature, also having signed receipt 3865. Witness testified that part of the time during her connection with the association that the young lady residing at the anti-American feeling that appears to be growing.

Reports continue to pour into the department from diplomatic and consular agents in China regarding the rapid increase of feeling against Americans and things American, as expressed in edicts issued by local authorities in various parts of the empire. Informal representations regarding the Chinese situation already have been exchanged between some of the European powers, but thus far this country has not called foreign nations into consultation because there is a very general feeling among the European powers that the Chinese are unjustly discriminated against by the American government.

While not admitting that the situation is one of imminent danger the officials here will not be surprised at any developments a month may bring forth. Although at the outset demanding only a return to the provision of the original exclusion treaty of 1880, which excluded from this country Chinese laborers without specifying the classes of Chinamen which should be admitted, in some provinces manifestos have been issued declaring that the boycott is rigidly adhered to America will be forced to forego any exclusion at all. These reports have been denied by Mr. Rockhill. Although directed primarily against Americans, the feeling of ill-will that seems to be growing in various parts of the empire is interpreted by orientalists to have a far deeper meaning. In a word, it is declared to be anti-foreign and there are indications that all foreigners, with the possible exception of Japanese, will soon be as keenly affected as are Americans.

SIMMON'S SUICIDE INVOLVES BANKS

One Has Closed Its Doors But the Other Will Weather the Rum. Coroner's Inquest.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 7.—The coroner's inquest over the remains of Rev. Dr. George H. Simmon's who committed suicide Tuesday began this morning. A strong effort is being made to keep out newsreeling details.

There is little hope that the business of the Peoples Bank ever will be resumed, but it is thought perhaps the Woolmers, distillers and brewers, and former owners of the bank may have to pay the depositors. When they sold out to Simmon and E. L. Kelly, the latter were to give a bond guaranteeing the depositors. This guarantee bond was never given. It is also said that they paid only a small portion of the purchase price. There is no doubt of the absolute solvency of the Inter-State bank.

British bark Mobile bay, which arrived at Anping, Formosa from New York, was totally destroyed by fire. The crew was landed. The bark had 7,000 cases of kerosene on board.

ONE MINUTE

In Jail Was the Sentence Imposed on the Boy, by the Judge in Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 7.—Judge William Pugh, of the state District court at Crowley, La., Tuesday broke the record on short sentences. Chas. Wilkinson, aged 16 years, was indicted for creating a disturbance at a ball. He pleaded guilty.

The prosecuting attorney reminded the judge that a jail sentence must be administered. Judge Pugh then sentenced the boy to pay a fine small and to spend one minute in jail.

The fine was paid and the sheriff took the boy to a cell, closed the door on him for 60 seconds and then turned him loose. The novel performance created considerable amusement in the county.

Situation in China the Subject of Genuine Concern.

REPRESENTATIONS ARE MADE

Agitation Now Declared to Be Anti-Foreign, All With the Exception of the Japanese Being Affected—Conciliar Reports Received at State Department.

Washington, Feb. 7.—For the past six months the situation in China has been the subject of concern to the state department, and Mr. Rockhill, the American minister at Peking, is under instructions to keep Washington thoroughly and frequently informed of the situation. He is also exerting himself at the Chinese capital in an effort to check or allay the anti-American feeling that appears to be growing.

Reports continue to pour into the department from diplomatic and consular agents in China regarding the rapid increase of feeling against Americans and things American, as expressed in edicts issued by local authorities in various parts of the empire. Informal representations regarding the Chinese situation already have been exchanged between some of the European powers, but thus far this country has not called foreign nations into consultation because there is a very general feeling among the European powers that the Chinese are unjustly discriminated against by the American government.

While not admitting that the situation is one of imminent danger the officials here will not be surprised at any developments a month may bring forth. "Nothing can be done to my reputation," said the witness. "Many criticisms of me have been made which I had no chance to answer. This is my only opportunity, and I simply desire to set myself right. I hope you will pardon me if I show some heat."

Mr. Wallace said many civil service appointees were sent to the isthmus who were not quite bad enough to discharge yet were thoroughly incompetent. It had been shown clearly that the civil service system was not adapted to procuring expert labor for work on the isthmus.

He did not favor an eight hour day and recommended that as few restrictions as possible should be placed on Mr. Stevens, and that the "wolves should be kept off his back." He thought the man in charge should be permitted to get workers in China, Japan, India, Spain, or where he pleased.

SECRETARY TAFT ALMOST SWORE

He Was So Angry, Testified Engineer Wallace

BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

A BRANCH OF THE T. M. C. A. NOT WANTED ON Isthmus

The Man in Charge Should be Permitted to Get Workers Wherever He Pleases.

Washington, Feb. 7.—John F. Wallace before the Senate committee on Inter-Oceanic Canal Tuesday gave a minute account of the conditions he found there, the difficulties encountered in getting material and supplies and delay that occurred in filling requisitions.

While he was cabling to have the orders expedited he said he received word from Admiral Walker that cablegrams cost money. It was a delicate hint, he said, that he had better not use the cables too much.

It was brought out that Mr. Wallace's successor had not the benefit of his analysis of the year's work and his recommendations.

"Why did he not have it?" asked Mr. Tallaferro.

"Because the Secretary of War told me that he did not want it and had no use for me except on the Isthmus as a directing engineer," replied Mr. Wallace.

"Do you mean that he was angry?" asked Senator Morgan.

"Yes, sir; so angry that in his treatment of me he all but cursed me," replied Mr. Wallace.

Mr. Wallace said that in all his experience in railroad construction he never had seen men better fed and housed than they were on the Isthmus. The complaints, he said, came from clerks who went to the Isthmus from Washington or New York who had got the idea from musical comedies that life in a tropical climate was to lie in hammocks and enjoy themselves. Efforts to establish a Young Men's Christian Association on the Isthmus for the benefit of the canal employees were stopped because of an official objection to it, said Mr. Wallace. He was asked to be more explicit and said that Governor Magoo had said that Secretary Taft did not wish the work to go on. Mr. Wallace thought this was because the community was Catholic.

"Nothing can be done to my reputation," said the witness. "Many criticisms of me have been made which I had no chance to answer. This is my only opportunity, and I simply desire to set myself right. I hope you will pardon me if I show some heat."

Mr. Wallace said many civil service appointees were sent to the Isthmus who were not quite bad enough to discharge yet were thoroughly incompetent. It had been shown clearly that the civil service system was not adapted to procuring expert labor for work on the Isthmus.

He did not favor an eight hour day and recommended that as few restrictions as possible should be placed on Mr. Stevens, and that the "wolves should be kept off his back." He thought the man in charge should be permitted to get workers in China, Japan, India, Spain, or where he pleased.

WHOLE FAMILY

Is Locked Up in the Booneville Jail for Having a Hand in the Murder of Leigh.

Booneville, Ind., Feb. 7.—At their preliminary hearing Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Thomas B. Youngblood, Jonas, Minerva and Simon Williams, charged with conspiracy in the murder of James Leigh, were held as accessories and remanded to the Wayne Circuit court for trial. Their bonds were paid at $1,000, $1,000 and $500 respectively, and their failure to give it returned the entire family to jail to wait the time of the calling of their cases. The evidence was strong against Mrs. Williams, as several testified that she handed her son Wesley the gun with which to shoot Leigh.

HER BEAUTY

Would Suffice to Liberate Her, the Witness Testified the Juror Had Said.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 7.—"I'd let her go on her looks, she's too d-d pretty to go to prison."

Witnesses Tuesday swore that Robert Mace had laid claim to Miss McDonald before he got on the jury before which she is to be tried for alleged complicity in the killing of Officer Dowell for which crime her brother, Tom Cox, escaped the gallows last summer by killing himself in jail.

Mace said when he was a magistrate he had always turned loose pretty women charged with offenses. Judge Hart held that as Mace had not heard the evidence against Mrs. McDonald he was a competent witness and the lawyer for the prosecution had to put up with him.

TO TAXATION COMMITTEE

BILL TO INCREASE THE DOW TAX IS REFERRED BY THE HOUSE.

TEMPERANCE LOSES A POINT

Wertz Measure Abolishing Convict Labor Passes the Senate—Another Lexow Resolution Introduced, Democratic Senators Opposing Little Proposition.

Columbus, Feb. 7.—The house passed Representative Wertz's bill prohibiting the competition of prison labor with free labor and providing for the manufacture of road material by prisoners in jails and penitentiaries.

The house by a vote of 58 to 55 referred Representative Aikin's measure raising the Dow tax from $350 to $1,000, to the committee on taxation. The bill had been reported for passage by the committee on temperance and this later reference is looked upon as a victory for the opponents of the bill. This is the first setback the temperance people have received since the opening of the assembly.

After a caucus of the Democratic senators and a conference with Senator Lamb it was decided to vote down the amended Kealy Cincinnati investigation resolution, giving Speaker Thompson and Lieutenant Governor Harris authority to name a bi-partisan joint committee of four members from each body. The caucus decided to name an independent senate committee with full authority to act. This committee will consist of two Democrats, Espy of Cincinnati and Schmidt of Cleveland, two Republicans, Meek of Dayton and Sites of Lancaster, and Lamb, Independent Democrat, of Toledo.

Bills introduced in senate: To authorize councils of villages to levy a tax for street lighting and fire protection; Mr. Duvall, to provide for state aid for weak school districts.

Bills passed by the house: Mr. Wilson, providing that the dog tax shall be levied on real estate; Mr. Woodburn, to allow admission of imbecile soldiers to the Soldiers' and Sailors' home at Sandusky; S. B. Mr. Williams, making term of insolvency judge in Cuyahoga county five years; S. B. Mr. Hafner, making the term of the insolvency judge in Hamilton county conform to the new constitution; Mr. Woods, providing that bidding notices for bridges to cost between $200 and $1,000 must be posted for 15 days on a blackboard in the county auditor's office, advertising in newspapers being dropped; Mr. Hatfield, authorizing county commissioners to remove piling, drift wood and other obstructions in streams caused by the piers and abutments of railway bridges, and charge the cost to the company owning the cause of obstruction.

He did not favor an eight hour day and recommended that as few restrictions as possible should be placed on Mr. Stevens, and that the "wolves should be kept off his back." He thought the man in charge should be permitted to get workers in China, Japan, India, Spain, or where he pleased.

The word "exclusive" is to be cut out of the Jones bill amending the Braddock law. This was disclosed at the hearing before the house temperance committee. The Jones bill is to be reintroduced, so that no question of its legality can be raised because it bears the name of Representative Jones of Jefferson, while it was actually introduced by Representative Woods of Medina. In the new bill the definition of business property will not include the word "exclusive," the effect of which was to make count as individuals all stores of anybody doing upstairs. Instead there will be a compromise definition that if 50 per cent of a building is used for residence purposes, the foot frontage shall not be counted as business property. The amendment is in a word the changing of ten per cent to 50 per cent, in the definition of business building.

Senator Crist introduced a measure to limit the compensation of county treasurers, county auditors, clerks of the court of common pleas, court recorders, sheriffs and probate judges, and providing for the employment and compensation of their clerks, deputies and assistants.

RICHLY DRESSED WOMAN WAS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

from a New York newspaper of dealers in old gold and silver. The case is a puzzle. How the woman came to be in the cove has not been ascertained.

New York, Feb. 7.—Miss Louisa Boyer, found insensible in a cove on the Niagara river between Tonawanda and LaSalle yesterday. No one knows how long she had been lying in the snow with the thermometer hovering near the zero point.

The gown she wore is tailor made, of the latest cut and her underclothing is of most expensive silk. Philip and Eugene Manga came accidentally upon the woman. They pushed aside a cape which covered her face and turned in vain to arouse her. Then they carried her to the farm house of Ang. Weishmann and sent for Dr. H. S. Campbell. They feared the woman had been run over to death. Dr. Campbell succeeded in partially restoring the woman to consciousness. He says if she dies it will not be from freezing, but from exhaustion. In a pocket of the woman's coat was found 12 cents.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 7.—An unusually well dressed woman aged about 30, believed to be Miss Louisa Boyer, with relatives in Brooklyn, was found insensible in a cove on the Niagara river between Tonawanda and LaSalle yesterday. SWOLLEN LIP OF MUSICIAN

MAY KEEP HIM FROM PLAYING AT THE WEDDING.

His Band Was Engaged to Play the Promenade Music at the Nuptials of Miss Roosevelt.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—If Samuel Schildkret, flute player, succeeds in removing the swelling from his upper lip, the Hungarian band, of which he is leader, will be concealed behind the palms of the White House on the day Miss Alice Roosevelt becomes Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

If Schildkret, who lives at 641 North Ashland avenue, fails it will be necessary for the President of the United States to seek elsewhere for musicians, or dispense with the promenade music.

But in no case will the troubles of Julius Reoscobewits of 161 Potomac avenue, also leader of a Hungarian band, be at an end. For it is charged that he permitted his professional jealousy to master him and that he deliberately tried to disable his successful rival by striking him on the upper lip. Schildkret appeared in Justice Martin's court Tuesday afternoon and asked for a warrant against the man he said had attacked him.

Schildkret is well known among fashionable people of Chicago. Usually, when there is a swell function, it is Schildkret who furnishes the music. Once Schildkret's band played at a reception here attended by Miss Alice Roosevelt. She was charmed with the music and told Schildkret that some day she hoped to have him play for her. Recently a request came from the President that Schildkret furnish the promenade music for his daughter's wedding, and the leader composed a march in honor of Miss Alice, which he intended to play for the first time at the White House. He will do so if his lip is reduced to normal size.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON

Tomorrow Night Will Give Occasion for Watch Parties—Begins 3 Minutes Before Midnight.

Astronomer Ford Lewis announces the forth coming eclipse of fair Luna as follows:

There will be a total eclipse of the moon February 8, beginning three minutes before midnight, Central Standard time. The moon will approach the earth's shadow at 11:57 and pass almost diametrically through it. As the diameter of the earth's shadow at that distance is about 7700 miles, and that of the moon only about 2900 miles, the moon must move eastwardly in its course a distance nearly twice its own diameter before crossing the shadow, or an arc of about one degree. To this distance must be added the moon's own diameter before the shadow will be cleared. This will require almost three hours time. Totality will therefore begin 12:57, and the moon will be in total darkness for one hour, except for a faint portion of a strange, weird quality of light, due to refraction by the earth's atmosphere.

The peculiar copper color will not be uniform over the entire surface of the moon, nor will it be constant, but will shift and fluctuate." The reason for this is difficult to explain, but it is due, no doubt, to the different degrees of humidity in widely separated portions of the earth's atmosphere.

It will be worth staying up to see, and will offer an occasion for a "watch meeting" of far greater interest than that of the passing of the old year. The moon will clear the earth's shadow at about 2:57, and go on its way rejoicing.

RUN DOWN AND NERVOUS

Whod Restored the Health of Miss Blair, Pres. of Sophomore Club.

Our well known druggist, Frank D. Hall, says, "Many people right here in Newark, are just in Miss Blair's condition, all run down, hardly able to drag about, don't know what ails them."

MISS ROSE BLAIR

"This condition is probably caused by a cold or cough which is hard to cure, overwork, or too close confinement to business. Such people need Vinol. We guarantee that it will cure them and build them up, or return money wherever it fails, and the following letter is only one of many showing what Vinol will do."

Miss Rose Blair, president Sophomore Club, Kansas City, Mo., writes: "Last spring I was all run down, nervous and irritable. I lost my appetite and could not sleep. I tried many medicines without any benefit. Your cod liver preparation, Vinol, was recommended, and it certainly worked wonders for me. It was delicious to take and not at all like the greasy cod liver oil and emulsions I was used to. Vinol gave me a hearty appetite and restored me to perfect health and strength. I consider Vinol a wonderful remedy."

"Vinol cures conditions like this because it contains every one of the curative medicinal elements found in cod liver oil without a drop of the useless oil to upset the stomach and retard its work, and it strengthens every organ of the body."

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person in Newark and every person suffering from stubborn colds, hanging on coughs or bronchial troubles to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it fails." Frank D. Hall, Druggist.

New York, Feb. 7.—General Horace Porter was the guest of honor at a dinner given at Delmonico's by the naval order of the United States, New York commander. General Porter is president of the navy league of the United States and spoke to the toast "The Navy." Rear Admiral Joseph B. Coughlin was toastmaster. General Porter advocated an increase in the navy. "I am afraid we are becoming a nation of hand-tooths," he declared. "We need and it is right that we should have an adequate navy. Some say that means war. Why, you might as well say that if you increased the police force that meant more crime, or if you increased the hospital accommodations with their doctors or nurses, that means increase of illness. It is not so."

Canal Commission's Report.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The report of the Isthmian canal commission transmitting to the secretary of war the majority and minority reports of the board of consulting engineers, together with the views of the canal commission, were laid before Secretary Taft. The commission's report sets out the reasons which influenced all of the commissioners, save Admiral Endicott, to accept the views of the minority of the board of consulting engineers rather than the majority, which favored the digging of a sea level canal. To the minority engineers' report, which secured the approval of the majority of the commission, was appended a letter from Chief Engineer Stevens reinforcing the reasoning of the minority of the engineer board, after a careful analysis of the two plans of sea level and lock canal.

PICKLE FAME AND FUNSTON.

Pickle Fame's flirtation with Fredy Funston is finished, says the St. Louis Republic. The official Kansas School History has rigorously revised itself, and neither it nor the Fifth Reader, that ultimate repository of immortality, and eternal dwelling place of heroes, will mention the magnificent swimming exploits in the Philippines. All reference to the brave feats at the Bagbag and the Rio Grande have been ruthlessly "cut out," the schools electing to follow the cold records of our unimaginative and unfeeling War Department which relate that the hero and his men were towed across the Rio Grande by two obscure privates, and that the Bagbag was crossed by a prosaic bridge, together with the statement of the Colonel of the Twentieth Kansas that General Funston could not swim a as to the effectiveness of the plan she fine modern legend must be ascribed to the inventiveness of an enterprising press agent.

NEW PLAN OF SPOTTING.

Women street car detectives have used various ways of keeping track of the people who board the cars and comparing them with the number of fares registered, but probably none is more interesting than that which was witnessed on one of the Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, cars the other day.

A woman, neatly dressed, in a strict suit of dark brown color, sat near the entrance of the car and as each person boarded the car she slipped a pin from her hand and stuck it inside of her coat, thus forming a pin cushion of the garment. By this means she could easily keep count of all the persons who entered the car and by noting the register when she left was enabled, after counting the pins, to determine whether or not any fares had been missed by the company.

The plan of using books and counting the pages, pencil and paper and checkers are easily noticed by the conductors as well as by passengers on the cars and through their interest in the movements of the fair sleuths the attention of the collector of fares readily attracted, thus putting him on his guard—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

NEVER STAYED FROM SCHOOL.

"I never have missed a day or a session at school, neither have I ever been dismissed or excused, and I was never tardy."

When Miss Ruby G. Stockwell made this remark in a casual way to the Claremont (N. H.) correspondent of the New York World, she did not realize that she held the record for school attendance. Now 21, Miss Stockwell began her school life in 1891 at the age of 5. She was exceptionally bright and advanced rapidly, receiving double promotion while in the primary grades. Although she had her share of the ailments of children they never kept her from school. School was her joy. She loved her books and her associates and she was a favorite of her teacher. As she grew older her love for school grew stronger, and at the end of each term she carried home one of the prizes offered for scholarship by legacies left for that purpose.

Entering the Stevens High school at 14, she took the classical course, and at the close of the four years she graduated with honors, and also won the second prize of $10.

Graduating in June, 1902, she continued to study throughout the summer months, and in September, 1902, she entered Mount Holyoke college, from which she will graduate next June.

FIGURES THAT STAGGER.

It used to be that astronomy, with its stupendous magnitude, incredible velocities and inconceivable distances, seemed to make the greatest demand on man's belief. Today it is physics. We read, for instance, that Hertz's oscillations give rise to 500,000,000 oscillations per second. Where is the man who can conceive of anything happening in the five hundred millionth part of a second? But this is quite a long period compared to some of those now accepted as inevitable in physics. According to Maxwell's great theory a light wave is a series of alternating electric currents flowing in air or in vacuous space, and changing their direction 100,000,000,000 times per second. And this is supposed to be or every form of light coming from the sun, the electric lamp or a lighter match. Who can think of anything happening in the thousand million millionth part of a second?—London Telegraph.

HEALTHY PLANTS.

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rose bush which, despite the most benignant environment of soil—sunshine—and of atmosphere, seemed never to achieve a healthy growth?

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a cancer eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotion, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of your hair which causes it to fall out.

RHEUMATISM AN INSIDIOUS DISEASE THAT BREAKS DOWN THE STRONGEST

Rheumatism does not come on in a day; the disease becomes entrenched in the system for years. This insidious disease becomes entrenched in the blood, and some exposure to cold or damp weather, or slight indiscretion brings on an attack. Poor digestion, stomach troubles, weak kidneys, terpid liver, and a general sluggish condition of the system are responsible for Rheumatism. Food souring in the stomach poisons the blood, the failure of the kidneys and liver to act properly leaves waste matter and impurities in the system, which, coming in contact with the natural acids of the body, form uric acid. This is absorbed by the blood, and as it penetrates to the muscles, nerves and bones produces the terrible pains and aches and other disagreeable symptoms of Rheumatism. Life is made a torture by its excruciating pains, nerves are shattered, the health undermined, and if the disease is not checked it breaks down the strongest constitution. It will not do to depend on plasters, liniments, etc.; such treatment is helpful in easing the pain and reducing the inflammation, but does not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by purifying and invigorating the thin, acrid blood, driving out all impurities and poisons and sending a stream of strong, rich blood to wash out all irritating particles that are causing the pain and inflammation. S. S. S. stimulates the sluggish organs to better action, tones up the stomach and digestion, restores nervous energy and builds up the entire health. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, whether acute or chronic, and the cure is thorough and lasting. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired without charge.

That is a wild tale from Washington to the effect that Germany has designs upon Brazilian territory and will go to war with the South American republic to make them effective.

State department officials are even said to fear that Germany may go to war with the United States over Brazil. This is all nonsense. It is no doubt intended to pave the way to the asking for larger naval expenditures, so as to make our fleets stronger than those of Germany. From Europe comes the report that Germany and Great Britain will have to fight some day, but that Germany will put off the conflict until she has an immense navy. The United States will have to spend a pretty penny if she is to keep up with the pace set by the German Kaiser in his naval program.

There is no probability of our going to war with Germany over Brazil or any other cause of dispute, and our aims should be to set such an example as will induce the other great powers of the world to reduce instead of increase their naval armaments.

ASSERTION

Of General Moody Caused Excitement Among Packers' Attorneys.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—United States Attorney General Moody took an active part in the trial of the packers' case. He was called upon by Attorney John S. Miller, who represents Amour & Company, to produce the original copy of a letter written to him by President Roosevelt, or to admit the authenticity of a copy which Mr. Miller produced in court. The attorney general admitted the accuracy of the document as a copy, but declared that the clause in the letter which the attorneys of the packers construed as meaning that the department of Justice and the department of commerce and labor were working on the case in unison was not correct. His assertion caused much excitement among the attorneys for the packers and they objected to the statement of the attorney general as being improper before the jury. The letter was not offered in evidence, but was marked for identification.

INJUNCTION CASE AT TOLEDO DELAYED

Questions Involved of Such Consequence That Case May Go to Supreme Court.

Toledo, Feb. 7.—The suit to enjoin the filtration plant contract did not go on trial in Common Pleas court yesterday as was expected. When the lawyers and officials came together before Judge Barber, the difficulties to be surmounted before the case could proceed were so great that it was postponed to Monday, February 19.

In the meantime the attorneys for both sides are expected to get together and prepare an agreed statement of fact, such as may be carried through the records. This must include the legislation, bids, contracts, specifications and a mass of material that will cover all the operations up to date. The city was allowed to file a cross petition.

The filter suit is of such magnitude and importance that it is attracting wide spread attention from attorneys and others interested in city affairs.

Not only is a half million dollar contract involved, but the suit may affect most of the public improvements and bond issues made in every city in Ohio since the new code went into effect, three years ago. For this reason it is likely that most improvement work will be stopped and the issues of the suit may prevent any street paving or bridge building in Toledo until a decision is reached by the supreme court for it is not expected that the litigation will stop short of the last resort.

DEBATE IN SENATE.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The senate devoted the session to a review of the prerogatives of the senate in the matter of framing treaties. The question was raised by Mr. Bacon in a speech on his resolution requesting information concerning the Algeciras conference. He was followed by Mr. Spooner. Both speeches were interspersed with debate, largely between Messrs. Bacon and Spooner, and there were two or three very sharp clashes between them.

RESTRAINED FROM DOING BUSINESS.

Boston, Feb. 7.—A temporary injunction restraining the Hanover bank of this city from doing further business in this state was issued in the equity session of the Massachusetts supreme court. Representatives of the attorney general's department informed the court that the condition of the institution was hazardous and that public necessity required that it be closed. The injunction is a result of an investigation into the bank's affairs, made by the savings bank commissioners. Foster Hooper, vice president of the institution, was arrested here on the charge of using the mails to further a conspiracy to defraud, the arrest being made on a bench warrant issued by the United States district court of New Jersey.

New York, Feb. 7.—The steamer Zulua, having on board Oliver Taigny, former chargé d'affaires for France at Caracas, Venezuela, who was not allowed to land again at LaGuayra after he had gone on board a French steamer to receive dispatches from Paris, arrived here. Mr. Taigny is on his way to Washington to report to the French ambassador. He has so far been unable to decipher the official instructions received by him at LaGuayra, his code book being in the legation building at Caracas.

IRON PLANT SOLD.

Racine, Wis., Feb. 7.—It is authoritatively announced that the Racine Malleable and Wrought Iron company, plant located at Lakeside, was sold to Cleveland, O., men for approximately $300,000. The principal purchasers are the Everhart Manufacturing company of Cleveland, capitalized for $200,000 and employing 50 hands.

TROTTER SOLD.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 7.—The five-year-old maddening trotter Harry McKerron, by John A. McKerron, was sold by Charles A. Otis, Jr., of this city, to other Cleveland parties for $7,000. The horse is to be trained for the coming season's interesting $5,000 cup race.

Mrs. Helen L. Thompson of Lowellton, Me., reports great benefit to her little girl from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which thoroughly purifies her blood after an attack of the blood poisoning disease, scarlet fever. It gives strength and renewed health. Thousands of others of similar cases, also cures of scrofula, salt rheum, eczema, etc.

PRESIDENT ON HAIZING

Makes Public His Views in a Communication to Congress.

WOULD MODIFY THE LAWS

Railroads Come in for Some Criticism in the Debate on the Freight Rate Bill—Senate's Prerogative in Matter of Framing Treaties—Proceedings of Congress.

Washington, Feb. 7.—A modification of the law against hazing at the naval academy at Annapolis is suggested by President Roosevelt, who has sent a communication to congress. Unless congress shall promptly amend the existing law against hazing, which makes mandatory the dismissal of any midshipman found guilty of any form of hazing, the secretary of the navy may be forced to dismiss 33 midshipmen from the naval academy within the next month, in addition to the eight who have already suffered this penalty and the three whose cases are awaiting the action of the department. Secretary Bonaparte after urging upon individual members of congress the necessity for immediate legislation, finally laid the whole matter before the president, who points out that in some instances it is manifestly unjust to subject a midshipman convicted of hazing to dismissal from the academy, as frequently the punishment is quite disproportionate to the offense committed. He suggested, further, that it is an error to try a midshipman accused of hazing by court martial.

Railways came in for some sharp criticism in the debate on the bill. Mr. Gillespie (Texas) expressed his dissatisfaction with the president's reply to his resolution, hazing at a combination between the Pennsylvania and other railroads. He will address a request to the president to have the interstate commerce commission make a thorough investigation along lines he will indicate to clear up this subject. Mr. Gaines (Va.) placed in the record evidences of combinations of roads to control the coal output of his state, and a traffic agreement between many southern roads and steamship lines, indicating a division of the territory to control business. He said it was because competition had ceased already that the pending bill was demanded. Mr. Sulzer of New York toasted the opponents of the bill, viewed with suspicion the unanimous report and pointed out as the "African in the woodpile" the word "suspended," which he said would apply to every rate fixed until the poor shipper was financially suspended in trying to enforce it. However, he will vote for the bill. General debate on the bill closed this afternoon.

DEBATE IN SENATE.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The senate devoted the session to a review of the prerogatives of the senate in the matter of framing treaties. The question was raised by Mr. Bacon in a speech on his resolution requesting information concerning the Algeciras conference. He was followed by Mr. Spooner. Both speeches were interspersed with debate, largely between Messrs. Bacon and Spooner, and there were two or three very sharp clashes between them.

RESTRAINED FROM DOING BUSINESS.

Boston, Feb. 7.—A temporary injunction restraining the Hanover bank of this city from doing further business in this state was issued in the equity session of the Massachusetts supreme court. Representatives of the attorney general's department informed the court that the condition of the institution was hazardous and that public necessity required that it be closed. The injunction is a result of an investigation into the bank's affairs, made by the savings bank commissioners. Foster Hooper, vice president of the institution, was arrested here on the charge of using the mails to further a conspiracy to defraud, the arrest being made on a bench warrant issued by the United States district court of New Jersey.

CONSUL TAIGNY ARRIVES.

New York, Feb. 7.—The steamer Zulua, having on board Oliver Taigny, former chargé d'affaires for France at Caracas, Venezuela, who was not allowed to land again at LaGuayra after he had gone on board a French steamer to receive dispatches from Paris, arrived here. Mr. Taigny is on his way to Washington to report to the French ambassador. He has so far been unable to decipher the official instructions received by him at LaGuayra, his code book being in the legation building at Caracas.

IRON PLANT SOLD.

Racine, Wis., Feb. 7.—It is authoritatively announced that the Racine Malleable and Wrought Iron company, plant located at Lakeside, was sold to Cleveland, O., men for approximately $300,000. The principal purchasers are the Everhart Manufacturing company of Cleveland, capitalized for $200,000 and employing 50 hands.

TROTTER SOLD.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 7.—The five-year-old maddening trotter Harry McKerron, by John A. McKerron, was sold by Charles A. Otis, Jr., of this city, to other Cleveland parties for $7,000. The horse is to be trained for the coming season's interesting $5,000 cup race.

MASS MEETING AT TAYLOR HALL

CITIZENS TAKE PRELIMINARY STEPS TO ORGANIZE GOOD GOVERNMENT LEAGUE.

Mayor McCleery and Father O'Boyle and Others Address Meeting. Committee Appointed.

There was a meeting of Newark citizens Tuesday night held at Taylor Hall in the Y. M. C. A. building when preliminary steps were taken, looking towards the organization of a Good Government League in Newark. The large attendance and the vast amount of enthusiasm displayed already heralds the great success of the organization and displays the sentiment of the citizens of Newark who are in favor of the best possible government for the people.

This league is to be proposed for the purpose of enforcing laws or for producing the city administration to its sense of duty. No complaint was offered by the speakers last night of any neglect in the part of the city officials.

The league which is proposed is for the purpose of interesting the citizens of Newark in all things concerning the welfare of the municipality.

It is to present the questions of public interest in an intelligent manner to the people.

Its chief object will be to stand back of the city administration in the enforcement of the laws.

Another object will be to discuss the questions of interest to Newark, especially the ordinances and franchises presented to the city council and let the people understand what they mean and where they will benefit or injure the city.

In other cities, the Good Government leagues take it upon themselves to look up the record of political candidates for public office and either approve or disapprove of their candidacy. Many times this is of great assistance to the voters for it is a rule to be depended upon as an authentic report.

At Tuesday night's meeting, several speakers addressed the audience.

Among the better known public men who talked were Rev. B. M. O'Boyle, Mr. Charles Flory, Mr. W. T. Curry, Mayor Samuel H. McCleery, Superintendent Simkins, Rev. Lester S. Bower and others. The best of good fellowship prevailed at the meeting and neither politics nor religion figured at all in the addresses.

A census was taken to ascertain if possible the sentiment of the meeting regarding the perfecting of the organization. It was unanimously voted to organize. Rev. L. P. Franklin was chosen temporary chairman of the meeting and Rollin Williams was temporary secretary. It was decided that the chair should appoint a committee for the purpose of drafting a constitution. This committee was appointed, the following gentlemen being named: Chairman, Rev. B. M. O'Boyle; secretary, Charles Flory; members, Prof. W. D. Simkins, Mr. W. T. Curry, Mr. Howard Stevens and Rev. T. L. Kierman. This committee will draft a constitution and submit it at a meeting to be called within the next two weeks.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Today was a day of oratory in the House. Under an agreement the general debate on the Hepburn railroad rate bill will close at 4:30 this afternoon. Both sides have put forward their oratorical heavy weights to wind up the debate, Bourke Cochran of New York, and Floor Leader Williams of Mississippi, Col. "Pete" Hepburn of Iowa, and Representative Mann, of Illinois.

There was an unusually large gallery attendance. Mr. Cochran was granted an hour and a quarter. He did not consider the Hepburn bill a complete panacea for the evils complained of. "It is not a step in the direction of socialism," Cochran added, "I support it, because I believe it to be a barrier against that very condition. It is the only means by which public ownership can be averted. It takes from socialism the most plausible argument which it has yet advanced."

"The bill does not do prompt and effective justice, but is a steady unfaltering step towards that goal." He reverted to the history of recent great railroad struggles, and the contesting parties, he declared, received the backing of the great representatives of the Republican party. He spoke of the Northern Securities case and said that Harriman and Morgan had been enriched by the court's decision in that case. "Logically these men are criminals," he said, "but actually they go free."

"Eugene V. Debs," he said, "for violating an injunction, was sent to jail; Senator Mitchell of Oregon, for asking a government department for a favor for a client, was hauled before a criminal court and condemned, and died under a shadow; another senator for a similar act is awaiting the decision of the Supreme court. They tell me there is equality in the law for these men, but if you were to attempt to bring one of these Wall street criminals to justice they tell you you would create panic."

Boston, Feb. 7.—Arthur B. Dixon, when he returned home from work, found his house locked and was obliged to break in the front door. He found his wife and four children dead in a bedroom. They had been asphyxiated. Medical Examiner A. A. McDonald decided that Mrs. Dixon had killed the children and herself. Dixon is 31 years old and his wife was 27. They had been married for about six years. Of late Mrs. Dixon had not been in good health.

At the banquet given in his honor in Manila he said:

"In two campaigns of my party I was defeated. A majority of the American people voted against me and my party, yet I believe a firm in the patriotism of those who voted against me as I do of those who voted for me. I believe that a majority, yet all of the American people without regard to party, are sincere well-wishers of the Filipinos and their country, and I want you to have as much confidence in the Republicans in power as I have, although I have been twice defeated by them, and when I say this I am not trying to pay them for favors, for they have never done anything for me, except to keep me out of office."

"I do not expect our people to administer authority without making mistakes, and if we Democrats go in power, good as we are, we will make mistakes. The Spaniards made mistakes here, so would the Filipinos if they were in power."

He concluded his remarks by praising what the United States had done in the Philippines in regard to education. Throughout his stay he refrained from discussing questions relating to the future of the Philippines.

"My ease of lockjaw will be entirely cured," he said, however, on one occasion, "when my visit here is concluded." He did not say that the relations between the Philippines and the United States will never be satisfactory.

Mr. Bryan told the Filipinos that nothing he could do in their interest would be of any avail unless they did their part. Patience was recommended and to show how slowly reforms come the speaker pointed out the fact that in the states both parties years ago placed themselves in the position of senators by popular vote, yet the reform has not yet been accomplished. Bryan met Aguinaldo at a reception given by the Elks. It was the first time that the ex-leader of the revolution had appeared in public in Manila in months.

"I am very happy to know you, sir," said Bryan, in greeting Aguinaldo. "I have heard much of you."

Aguinaldo passed on to Mrs. Bryan without response.

Private Secretary Loeb, President's Second Self

Personality of a Man Who Began Life as a Stenographer.

Self Made and a Breadwinner at Twelve--Guards His Chief More Closely Than Secret Service Men--Kindly In Handling Office Seekers--His Very "No" Makes Friends--How He Disposes of Presidential Gifts.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, officially, is two men. He has two pairs of hands, feet, ears and eyes and a second voice. The president's alter ego is William Loeb, Jr., secretary to the president. Since the president entered the White House the only occasions on which he has been just his one self include the periods of Loeb's brief annual vacations and a single day last November, when Loeb was ill for the first and only time. Otherwise, night and day, in Washington or in western wilds, the president's other self has been with him. One Christmas Loeb set out to visit his parents in Albany, N. Y. As he boarded the train he was handed a message calling him to the White House. He abandoned his trip forthwith, with his usual sunny smile.

"White House Annex."

When first he brought his charming bride to Washington—she was Katherine Dorr of Buffalo—he lived at the Hotel Richmond. The hotel in consequence became known as the "White House annex." One evening Loeb started from the "annex" with his bride for the theater. Just then came a telephone summons from the White House. Two nights later he again told the president about Loeb attends to himself. The superintendent of a great New York publishing house came to see the executive about a hitch in the postal service that seriously affected the publishing house. Inside of two minutes Loeb saw that a misunderstanding existed in the post-office department. "It won't be necessary to see the president," he said. And forthwith he rang up one of the assistant postmasters general, and in ten telephonic words the matter was adjusted and the superintendent made happy. Thus Loeb disposes of most of the White House visitors without disturbing the executive.

The President's Taskmaster.

Loeb is the personification of the business system of the White House. He is the president's taskmaster. All mail passes through his hands, and he permits only letters of the first importance to reach the president. The mail is stupendous. After inauguration in 1905 fully 1,500 letters a day reached Loeb's desk. The White House mail at any time is so enormous that the president cannot read one letter in ten and sometimes not one in a hundred. Loeb himself can read only a fraction of the mail. Often there are started for the theater, for the play was one his wife especially wished to see. At the door of the playhouse, a secret service man whispered in his ear. Loeb escorted his wife back to the "annex" and then hastened to the White House. A third time, on the last night of the play, he started for the theater. A third time the president intervened. Loeb never saw that show.

That's what it means to be a president's indispensable second self. That's what it means for a secretary to have the complete confidence of the chief executive. That Loeb knows the president and his characteristics better than any other man in the White House or in public life is certain, for daily and hourly Loeb is in effect Roosevelt.

His Very "No" Made Friends.

"Stonewall" Loeb he is called. He stands between the president and the busybodies, the office seekers and the cranks. He guards the president more closely than do the secret service men. He has all the tact essential for his position. With him I went for a visit to a friend at the Willard hotel, in Washington. As we passed through the corridors Loeb was buttonholed by men who wanted his ear—that is, the president's ear. It was interesting to see, at the door of the playhouse, a secret service man whispering in his ear. Loeb escorted his wife back to the "annex" and then hastened to the White House. A third time, on the last night of the play, he started for the theater. A third time the president intervened. Loeb never saw that show.

The labor at the White House is immense, and a great part of that labor falls upon Loeb. For the president there is ceaseless worry and harassing anxiety. It is the duty of the president's second self to minimize that worry and anxiety. To accomplish this Loeb shoulders all details. He is the president's memory and his timekeeper, his files, his records and his workshop. No papers go to the president's desk except the papers Loeb himself puts there. Then always the president's traveling engagements must be considered. All papers relating to matters to be taken up on a trip are kept in a folder, so that when the president leaves the White House Loeb has all the matters needing the executive's attention on that journey all ready in compact form in his grip.

Loeb's Call Box.

The president summons Loeb to his private office by means of an electric device in a box close to Loeb's desk. When the president pushes a button a short, sharp, snappy sound is produced in the box. One day an old gentleman came to see Mr. Roosevelt. Loeb said he would arrange the matter and left the room. The old gentleman sat close to Loeb's call box. Suddenly there was a short, sharp, snappy sound, and the visitor jumped up affrighted.

"That's only a call from the president for Mr. Loeb," explained Assistant Secretary Barnes.

"But, goodness me!" exclaimed the old man. "Does the president always shoot off a revolver when he wants Mr. Roosevelt, and to that one the secretary said: "Come tomorrow at 12. I'll tell the old man"—"old man" being a president eight years Loeb's senior in age.

the suspenders were returned to the donor along with other gifts galore. "The president regrets that he cannot accept the deer head you so kindly sent him, as he is obliged to adhere to his rule to accept no presents. The deer head, therefore, is returned to you today by express." Such is the stereotyped letter signed by Loeb, a dozen or more of similar purport leaving the White House in the mail every working day.

Despite the president's known aversion to receiving presents the express companies continue to dump tons of gifts on Loeb's hands. So many of the gifts are sent anonymously, thereby making it impossible to return them, that Loeb has set apart a room in the new executive offices known as the "museum." There Loeb stores the gifts that await claimants. There are all sorts of firearms and other weapons, watches, chains, scarfspins and other articles, bear-skins, sets of harness, oil paintings, and no end of patent medicines and books and photographs of the president in costly frames. Barrels of fruit and other perishable foods are thrown away if Loeb does not know the sender's name. Even live animals—a Shetland pony, a Scotch collie, an Arabian stallion—reach the White House. For humane reasons Loeb orders these anonymous living gifts sent until they can be transferred to the national zoo.

Only a "Park Rider."

Besides all this, Loeb has been obliged to decline at least twenty offers of automobiles from different manufacturers who sought him only to advertise their machines. Loeb also receives innumerable offers of presents for himself personally. Like the president, he declines all excepting the least costly from his intimate friends. And as for automobiles, Loeb no more than his chief will have anything to do with them. He owns one of the Seth Bullock horses that were sold in Washington and rides whenever he can. At a jack rabbit hunt in Texas last spring Loeb was at the death every time. The range riders, surprised at his riding, complimented him, but Loeb modestly maintained that he was only a "park rider."

Like his official predecessor, Loeb is a self made man. He is not college bred. He's a plain public school boy. At twelve years of age he became a breadwinner. While learning shorthand he acted as secretary for Bishop Doane and thus first became self supporting. As a law reporter he became actively interested in practical politics, serving as secretary of the Republican county committee and as vice president of the Unconditional Republican club, all this in his native Albany. When Roosevelt became governor of New York Loeb was appointed one of the official stenographers for the executive. His ability to do things without specific instructions on every point and his familiarity with public men and affairs attracted Roosevelt's notice, and Loeb became the governor's private secretary. As Roosevelt rose, then, so did Loeb. When Roosevelt went to the White House Loeb went with him and in time succeeded Cortelyou as secretary. Thus the man who began life as a stenographer became a president's second self.

GILSON WILLETS.

NO LONGER WEBFOOTERS.

Oregonians Hereafter to Be Called Beavers.

Hereafter it will be bad form, if not seditions, for any member of the Oregon Development League or the Oregon Press Association to use the term "Webfoot State" as applied to Oregon or to refer to native Oregonians by their long endured nickname of "Webfoots," says a special dispatch from Portland, Ore., to the "Chicago Inter Ocean." At the closing session of their joint convention, held in the parlors of the Commercial club, at Portland, the two organizations went on record against the use of all nicknames which reflect on Oregon's climate or cast a slur on the character of her citizens, including not only the ones mentioned, but "mossback," "cow counties," etc., and at the session of the press association in the afternoon the action taken at the joint meeting was clinched by the adoption of a resolution that the beaver, Oregon's original emblem, be adopted and that the nickname of "Beavers," appropriate and historically correct, be applied to the industrious citizens of the commonwealth by those who must use some sobriquet.

The action in joint convention was taken on motion of Tom Richardson, secretary of the Development league, who said that serious harm had been done by the indiscriminate use of the terms "Webfoot" and "Webfooter," that thousands of dollars had been diverted from investment in Oregon by the application of a nickname intended to convey the idea that Oregon's climate was perpetually damp and disagreeable, whereas, in fact, the annual rainfall of the state was less than that of many other states of the Union.

Message in Fish's Stomach.

While cleaning a smelt the other day Fred Ivany of Plainfield, N. J., found in its stomach a small bottle securely corked, says a dispatch to the New York Tribune. Inside was the following message on a piece of writing paper: "Whoever gets this note will confer a favor by replying to the undersigned Harry Durant, Margate, Prince Edward Island, Canada, Jan. 4, 1906." The bottle was almost as large as the smelt's mouth. In nineteen days it had traveled a thousand miles.

THE LOCKHART WEALTH

How $180,000,000 Was Made From Three Barrels of Oil.

TRAITS OF PITTSBURG MAGNATE

Man of Simple but Cultured Tastes Who Craved Privacy and Had a Remarkable Talent for Making Money—Devotee of Art—How His Contributions to Charity Were Made.

The board of tax assessors of Allegheny county in Pennsylvania purposed to clear the mystery that has interested everyone in the estate of the late Charles Lockhart of Pittsburgh, which is now said to amount to $180,000,000 and to have grown to that size from three barrels of crude petroleum bought in 1852, says a Pittsburgh special dispatch to the New York Herald.

Lockhart died on Jan. 26, 1905, leaving a will in which he divided the bulk of his estate between two sons, J. H. Lockhart and John M. Lockhart, and two daughters, Mrs. John R. McNamee and Mrs. Henry Lee Mason. To his other child, Mrs. William S. Flower, who married a young dentist against the wishes of her family, he left only the income of $20,000. The will was drawn in such shape that it was not necessary to divulge the value of the estate, which was announced to be between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000. He had been popularly rated at between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000.

It is said that Mrs. Flower will reopen her contest of the will. She had settled her case for $47,500 and a life interest in $1,300,000 on the basis of the estate being worth $10,000,000. It now develops that the estate is worth nearer $200,000,000 than $100,000,000, and her attorneys are preparing to reopen the case and demand a more liberal settlement.

Severe has been the keynote of the Lockhart family. Charles Lockhart was never communicative to the public, and those who knew him respected his craving for privacy. It was due to this inherited desire for secrecy that Mrs. Flower was able to make better terms with her brothers and sisters than were provided by her father's will.

Even the reasons on which her suit would be based were not made public, but it was alleged that her father had left at least $200,000,000. Her share in this was ridiculous small. The suit would have resulted in making public the value of the estate, and to avoid this the other four heirs sacrificed $250,000 each. This, with the $900,000 trust fund and $100,000 cash left to each of the children, presumably to tide them over until the estate could be settled, gave Mrs. Flower $1,750,000. With this she was content to abandon the contest. Nor the board of assessors has declined to accept the heirs' estimate of less than $10,000,000 and have returned the statement to them to be sworn to. The assessors believe the estate is worth $100,000,000.

Mr. Lockhart was a man of simple but cultured tastes. While he had a remarkable talent for making money, he was a devotee of art. It is said he was one of the few Pittsburgh men of wealth who had not at some time or another been imposed upon with a crude copy.

He was charitable, but was afraid of appearing ostentatious. It is told of him that when a committee of women would wait upon him to secure a contribution to charity Mr. Lockhart would perhaps put his name down for $50. Then the committee would seek Mrs. Lockhart to secure her name.

Gazing over the list, Mrs. Lockhart would come to the Rev. Charles Lockhart, $70. "There is some mistake here," Mrs. Lockhart would say. "Mr. Lockhart meant $500, not $50. I will correct it." Then she would subscribe her "mite," probably $25. When the list was returned to Mr. Lockhart for the two subscriptions he would make no protest, but with a smile, draw his check for $750.

Mr. Lockhart's great fortune grew from the purchase of three barrels of crude petroleum. He was born on a farm in Scotland in 1818. His parents were for the time and place well to do. When seven years old he went to live with his uncle, a merchant at Garliestown, a Scotch seaport. In 1833 the Lockharts emigrated to the United States. Charles Lockhart came to Pittsburg, seeking employment with the wholesale grocery firm of James McNamee & Co. In 1855 he became a member of the firm.

It was while still a clerk, in 1852, that Lockhart made his venture in oil. This was the release of three barrels of oil into the water pipes until the other day, when word was brought to Whimunica from Spring Valley to this effect, says a Reno (Calif.) correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle. Mrs. Slater, a young woman who went to Spring Valley a few weeks ago to teach school, turned on the water faucet on a recent morning, when a bright gold nugget rolled out.

Several particles of fine gold also accompanied it. It is believed the metal came from rich placer grounds located close to the water supply, and more of the metal is expected.

Gold From Water Faucet.

Through it has long been known that gold is plentiful in Humboldt county, Cal., it was not definitely known that nuggets float through the water pipes until the other day, when word was brought to Whimunica from Spring Valley to this effect, says a Reno (Calif.) correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle. Mrs. Slater, a young woman who went to Spring Valley a few weeks ago to teach school, turned on the water faucet on a recent morning, when a bright gold nugget rolled out. Several particles of fine gold also accompanied it. It is believed the metal came from rich placer grounds located close to the water supply, and more of the metal is expected.

Wireless Telegraphy in Mexico.

Wireless telegraphy has been maintained for several years across the gulf of California, and now the Mexican government has awarded contracts for a plant that will afford communication over a distance of about 200 miles not only between the various stations of the system, but with shipping, says Harper's Weekly. The Mexican government has a trained staff of wireless operators, and it is thought likely that this method of communication will undergo important extension through that country.

MISS ROOSEVELT'S PLUCK.

How She Climbed Up a Ship's Side and Rebuked Camera Men.

On the first day of Miss Alice Roosevelt's recent New York shopping expedition, undertaken in preparation for her approaching marriage to Congressman Nicholas Longworth, while driving with her fiancée in an electric car on a woman in Fifth avenue hurled a bunch of violets into the lounge. Mr. Longworth caught it and handed it gallantly to his betrothed, who smiled a little pensively at this tribute from some one unknown out of that "far the world" that loves lovers, says the New York World.

After trying on some gowns the next morning at the home of Robert Goelet, where Miss Roosevelt stayed during her visit, she drove with Mrs. Goelet to the Ogden Mills residence. After a short call there Miss Roosevelt, Mrs. Goelet and Gladys, left the house together and walked over to Madison avenue. By this time a crowd of the curious had collected, and several snapshot artists had made ready for action. The four young women at first paid no attention to any of the crowd. Miss Alice turned to the photographers and said, with a pretty flush on her cheeks:

"Please stop this. I think you must have enough pictures of me, and it annoys my friends. I don't mind, but don't you think I ought to have a little privacy? Please leave me alone now. Won't you please respect my wishes?"

The photographers lifted their hats and retired at once from the field.

Before she returned to Washington Miss Roosevelt climbed a pilot ladder up to the lofty side of the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosser the other afternoon to greet her sister-in-law, the Countess de Chamberlain. It was a twenty-five foot climb that would have terrified a good many men unused to it, but she did it blithely. Her fiance, whom she had accompanied down the bay on a revenue cutter, followed her.

The Manhattan arrived at quarantine before the steamship had come up from the Hook. Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth landed on the pier to change to Health Officer Doty's boat, the Charles F. Allen, which was to put them aboard the Kaiser Wilhelm.

When the big steamship hove in sight the Charles F. Allen to the two passengers out to her. The pilot's ladder was already over the ship's side, an affair of slats and ropes, a little shaky looking for any woman. The Kaiser's officers saw a woman on the quarantine boat and began to give orders to let down the huge accommodation ladder—a flight of steps as comfortable as those of a house—but Miss Roosevelt would have none of that.

"Tell them," she said, "that this is good enough for me," and her refusal was megaphoned up to the deck.

The little quarantine boat rolled and tossed in the heavy chop of the bay, but the ladder hung steady enough against the side of the motionless liner. Without thought of her dainty white gloves or mock tremors about exposure of her dainty shod feet Miss Roosevelt went up like a bird to the deck of the ship. Mr. Longworth joined her in a minute, presented his fiancee to his sister and then all three went to cabin.

Standing on the platform of a Pullman car in the Pennsylvania railroad station, Miss Alice Roosevelt made her debut at a thorough examination by Professor Ostwald of Leland Stanford University.

After the examination was completed, the professor said: "I am very pleased with your progress. You are improving rapidly. Your memory is excellent. You are a good student. You will be successful in your studies. You have a good future ahead of you."

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

TWO CENT FARE NOW A CERTAINTY

FREINER BILL PASSES HOUSE WITH ONLY ONE OPPOSING VOTE.

Senator Rathburn Will Not Delay or Endanger the Bill in the Senate Where it Will Pass.

Senator Rathburn will not delay or endanger Representative Freiner's two cent fare bill. The Senate will pass the Freiner bill without amendment and without delay," he said today. "It is no matter whose name is at the head of the bill, what we want is legislation."

Columbus, Feb. 7.—Through half-shut eyes one could imagine the House of Representatives Tuesday evening as the national convention of the terror when Robespierre's star was in the ascendant.

"Decreed!" shouted the Jacobsins to the trembling and unheard prisoner at the convention bar.

"Agreed!" shouted the House of Representatives at the Freiner bill fixing the passenger rate upon railroads at 2 cents per mile.

The author of the measure vainly tried to be heard. Nothing but a continued roar met his efforts.

Swinging his arms above his head, he cried: "Vote, then; vote."

On the extreme left Representative Foster, of Hancock, arose to offer an amendment. "No! No!" came the shrieking chorus. Foster explained that it was to provide that the 30 days granted by the Freiner bill in which to put the law into effect should be cut off. With a roar this was defeated.

Then up rose Representative Judy of Darke county, to offer an amendment that there should be no time limit on the tickets issued by railroads.

"Vote it down!" went up the hue and cry.

"I am in earnest, gentlemen," cried Judy.

"A railroad ticket is a contract and is good for 15 years at least," came in low tones from Representative Welker of Stark. Once again came the sullen swell of negative voices and Judy sat down. Speaker Thompson, recognizing that the Assembly was in no mood to hear amendments ordered a roll call.

After it had begun young Henry T. Hunt, of Cincinnati, who had been reared in the railroad business and wanted to speak against the bill, tried to get recognition.

"Too late," was the answering shout, and he sat down. In rapid succession 105 names were called and the only negative vote was cast by Hunt. In the twinkling of an eye the title was agreed to and the bill was ready for the Senate. Less than 10 minutes had been spent passing a measure that has been under discussion for over 20 years.

"I may be the only man wrong in the House," said the solitary opponent of the bill. "And again I may be the only man that is right. I fear that it is going to hurt the small roads of the state and inconvenience a good many travelers who patronize these lines. It will not hurt the trunk lines, but it will hurt the others."

The bill will today be read for the first time in the Senate. That body has already gone on record as favoring the two cent principle. The Freiner bill is precisely the Rathburn bill which the Senate adopted save that 30 days' grace is given the railroads and that the minimum distance over which more than two cents a mile can be charged is five miles. Assurances have been given that the Freiner bill will be adopted in the Senate and made into a law as early as possible. This may be done before the Senate adjourns for the week.

Tuesday a delegation from Monroe county, through which runs the Ohio River and Western railway the only narrow gauge road in the state, which is asking to be exempted from the provisions of the reduction, came to protest against any such action, declaring that the territory through which the line runs had contributed to its construction and building up and was entitled to the same treatment as persons in other parts of the state. New coal fields are being opened up on the line and it is in reality a valuable property, instead of being in distress, as they said.

SPINE INJURED PARALYSIS RESULTS

James Kinkade an Aged Wagon Driver of Zanesville Meets With Peculiar Accident.

Zanesville, Feb. 7.—In a peculiar manner James Kinkade, aged 72, employed as driver of a coal wagon and residing at Grant street and Marietta road, was seriously and probably fatally injured at the plant of the Harris Brick company, east of the city, Tuesday morning. The victim was caught between the wagon and a brick arch of a kiln, his spine being injured. Paralysis of the lower extremities resulted and death may follow. Kinkade is a driver for Jacob Fisher, coal dealer. He had just delivered a load of coal to the Harris brick yard, it being placed in a brick kiln, which was soon to be fired. Kinkade's horse and wagon stood in the archway of the kiln. Something started the horse and while Kinkade stood alongside his wagon he was caught between the vehicle and the brick archway. A severe wrenching was given the whole of Kinkade's body.

MAD DOG SCARE AT CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge, Feb. 7.—Considerable excitement was caused in the east end of the city Tuesday morning by the actions of a large dog which was apparently mad. The dog was frothing at the mouth and is reported to have snapped at various people.

The janitor of the east end school house reported the matter to Mayor Bradford and was told to kill the animal. James Jackson shot it. It is thought the animal was badly frozen during the night and that this accounts for its actions.

ILLEGAL FEES

Alleged to Have Been Taken By Pennsylvania Officials.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 7.—The legislative investigating committee here has been inquiring into the methods employed in state insurance department presented its report to the senate and house. The committee calls attention to the testimony secured by it which may tend to establish malfeasance in office on the part of former Insurance Commissioners Luper, Lambert and Durham and some of their subordinates, especially that which relates to receiving the attorney's compensation, and also to the illegal fees alleged to have been taken under Durham's administration of the office.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and relieves pain in passing it, or bad effects of owing use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a cure you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that contains more about Swamp-Root.

Address Dr. Kilmer & Sons of Swamp-Root Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this dangerous offer in this paper.

Don't take the risk of mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

INJURIES ARE NOT SERIOUS

FIRST REPORTS OF PROF. W. G. TIGHT'S ACCIDENT WERE EXAGGERATED.

Mrs. Arabella Tight of Granville Received a Telegram From the Dean of University.

It now transpires that the injuries received by Dr. W. G. Tight, president of the University of New Mexico, by reason of an explosion of gasoline while experimenting in his laboratory, have been greatly exaggerated by the press reports sent out from Albuquerque. An Advocate reporter caller at the home of Mrs. Arabella Tight in Granville learned that she had just received a telegram from Prof. G. E. Hodgkins, dean of the university, stating that President Tight was "severely but not dangerously" injured. The telegram also conveyed the information that a letter would follow giving full details of the affair.

A widow and one son survive.

Wild Pigeons.

J. D. Simkins, Newark, Ohio:

If we old people were to tell how the wild pigeons used to swarm in the woods the boys would not believe us.

I am not sure as to dates, but think it was 1872 or 1873 that they were last here, myriads of them.

For two nights they roosted in the Skinner woods.

So many of them gathered in the tree tops that great limbs would break from their weight.

It was not safe to walk through the woods.

I saw trees twelve or thirteen inches in diameter bending down with a weight of pigeons.

When standing together under the trees, we all fled at one time; the top of the tree went up with a swish while we were pounded by birds that came down by the bushel.

I think that T. W. Phillips killed the last timber rattle snake killed in this section, about 1871.

The prairie rattle snake is yet quite common in the southwest part of the county.

Copperheads are yet to be found in hilly parts of the county.

In the year 1881 or 1882 I killed, in the northwest corner of Newark township, a copperhead which Mr. S. G. Phillips, an old pioneer, pronounced the largest he had ever seen. It measured 40 inches in length.

GRANVILLE NEWS

Granville, Feb. 7.—One of the most enjoyable programs presented to a Granville audience this season was that furnished by the Temple Quartet Concert company of Boston, assisted by Miss Lucy Dean Jenkins, reader, teacher of oratory at Delaware. The members of the quartet were H. S. Tripp, first tenor; E. F. Webber, second tenor; H. F. Baker, baritone and accompanist; A. C. Steele, basso. The selections were especially pleasing, were rendered with unusual excellence and with fine interpretation. Miss Jenkins is an admirable reader and completely captivated the audience by her winning personality and by the character of her reading. The following program was rendered:

"On Goliath Company" (Becker) Temple Quartet.

"Scene from 'Les Misérables'" (Victor Hugo) Miss Jenkins.

"Beloved is the Morn" (Aylward) Mr. Baker.

"Phantom Band" (Thayer) Temple Quartet.
